

COANG Highlights - January 2018

United Airlines hosted their annual North Pole flight for select groups of kids in the Denver area, including some families from our own Colorado National Guard. The kids (and their families) were treated to a very special day that included visits from a variety of United employees, who greeted each family with kindness and generosity and provided Christmas gifts for each and every child! What an amazing day!

Retirement & Change of Command

Colonel Thomas Niichel retired this month from the 240th Civil Engineering Flight. He worked on many significant projects on base, including the runway aprons and many building projects. He was also involved in IRT programs facilitating training for troops around the country. Enjoy your retirement Sir!

Lieutenant Colonel Stephanie Patrick assumes command of the 137th Space Warning Squadron after departing her job as the State Partnership Officer in Charge. Her background also includes an extensive career in the 140th Wing's intel section. Congrats on your selection, Ma'am!

Technician Holiday Party

The annual Technician Holiday Party went off in fine fashion this year, and gets better every time! Thanks to SMSgt Manny Gomez for being a great Sugar Plum Fairy!
